Secretary of State Buchanan Named to Lead National Policy Committee

CHEYENNE, WY – Wyoming's Secretary of State Edward Buchanan is leading a national policy committee for the National Lieutenant Governors Association (NLGA). NLGA is the professional association providing research and issue exchange opportunities to the officeholders first in line of succession to governor in all 50 states and the U.S. territories. Secretary Buchanan is the gubernatorial successor in Wyoming.

Secretary Buchanan is serving as Co-Chair of the NLGA Committee on State Strategies.

The NLGA Committee on State Strategies drives work to advance effectiveness and efficiency in state and territorial government. "This committee promotes the exchange of views on state and territorial issues and fosters interstate cooperation," said NLGA Director Julia Brossart. "The members of this committee are experts for the Association in a range of issues. Secretary Buchanan is recognized as a leader in elections, business services, and ever-growing cyber security issues."

"I am honored by my appointment to lead this committee. The bi-partisan exchange of best practices and good ideas are essential for governance and often develop the very best policies for each state in the union," said Secretary Buchanan.

In addition to its specific duties, the committee will address issues of mutual concern to all member states. Secretary Buchanan has served as Wyoming's 22nd Secretary of State since March 1st, 2018. Secretary Buchanan represented Goshen County for ten years in the Wyoming State Legislature. During his tenure in the House of Representatives, he served as Chairman of Judiciary, Majority Floor Leader and as Speaker of the House.
